

Biography for Greg McLaughlin

Greg McLaughlin is the Senior Director of Operations for Charter Communications' Wireless Research and Development Group. Ensuring the execution of the group's advanced wireless development initiatives, he additionally informs Charter's positions on both the technical and regulatory aspects of spectrum and technology policy, including wireless infrastructure.

McLaughlin formerly served as the Director of Corporate Strategy for Bright House Networks, including as a key member of the SpectrumCo and CableWiFi wireless consortiums, and in multiple operational roles during his 19 years in the cable industry.

An Electrical Engineer with an MBA and Master's equivalent in Strategic Planning and National Security Policy, he retired as a Captain in the US Naval Reserve with over 16 years active service as a Naval Aviator and Strategic Planner.